New Palestine, Indiana

new palestine high...

Life can be compared to a school play with its situations of drama lightened with humor.

Miss Willis strives hard in her directing to correct every fault, perfect all English, and provide help so that the play will be enjoyable, profitable, but more important, rewarding to the actors. So it is with life--a person finds a role, and he enacts this role in everyday life, hoping eventually for a reward.

School-life is the time of rehearsals, practice sessions in which each student tries out for the part he would like. He learns about his relationship to the other actors.

Mr. Keith Davis is the director of the rehearsals. He has the task of preparing the actors for life--higher learning, future jobs, being with people, building character, developing leaders, and meeting competition. The Place - New Palestine High School, the People - We, the Time - Now.

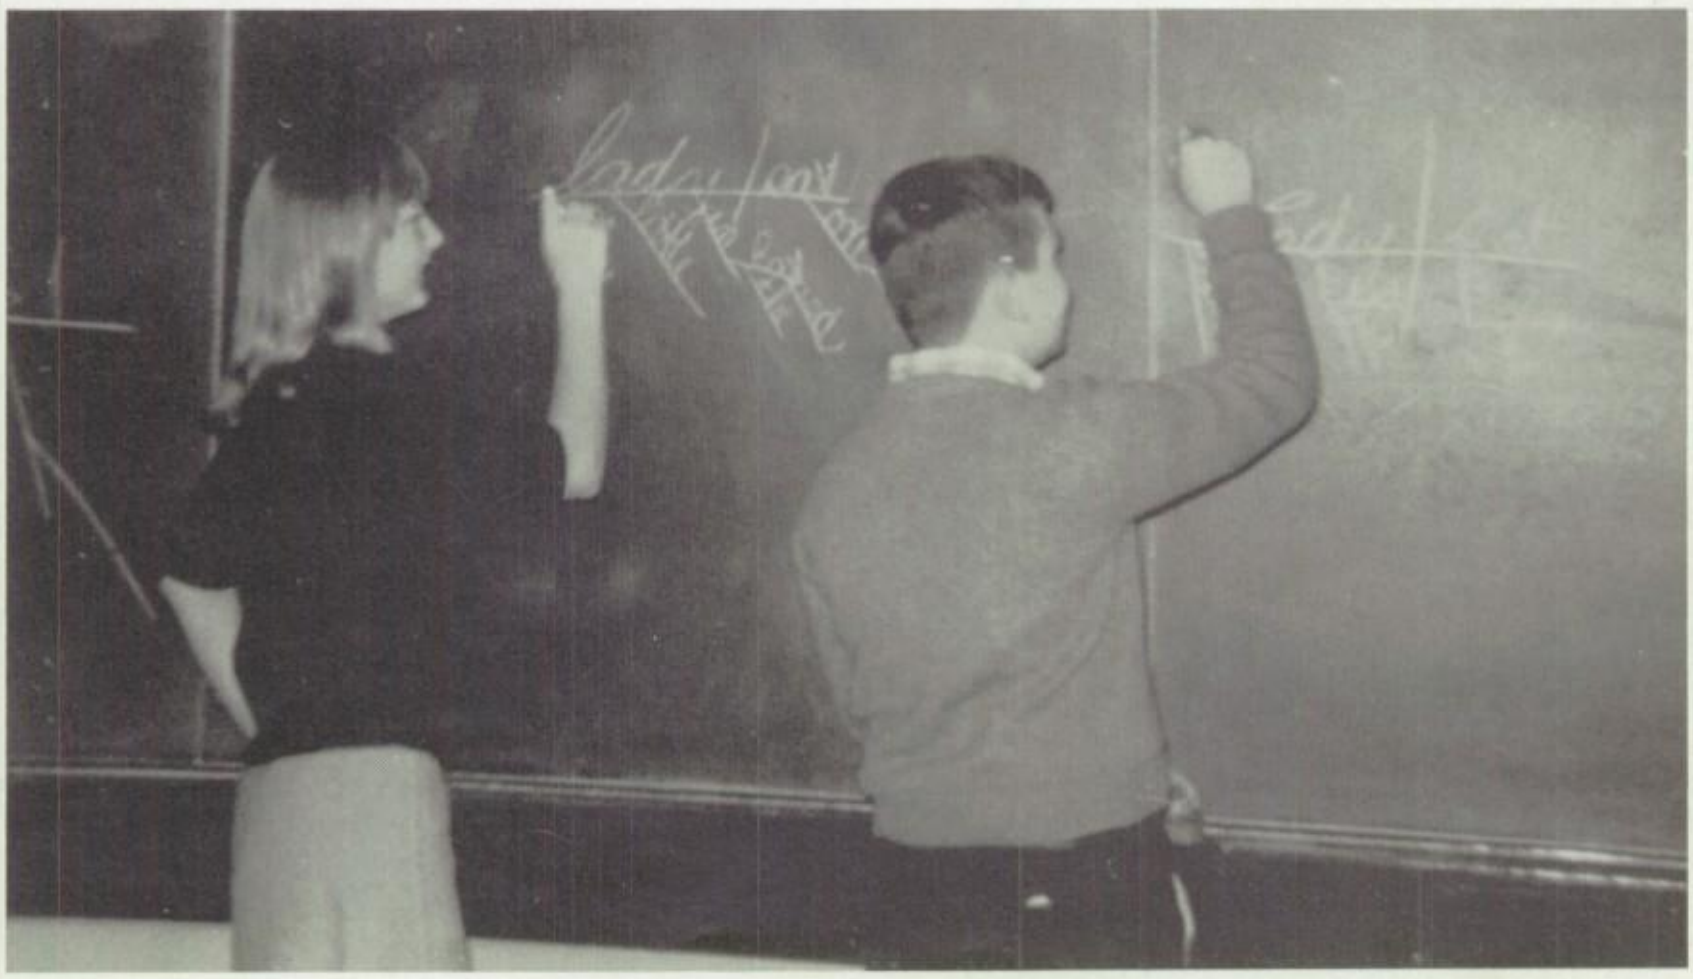
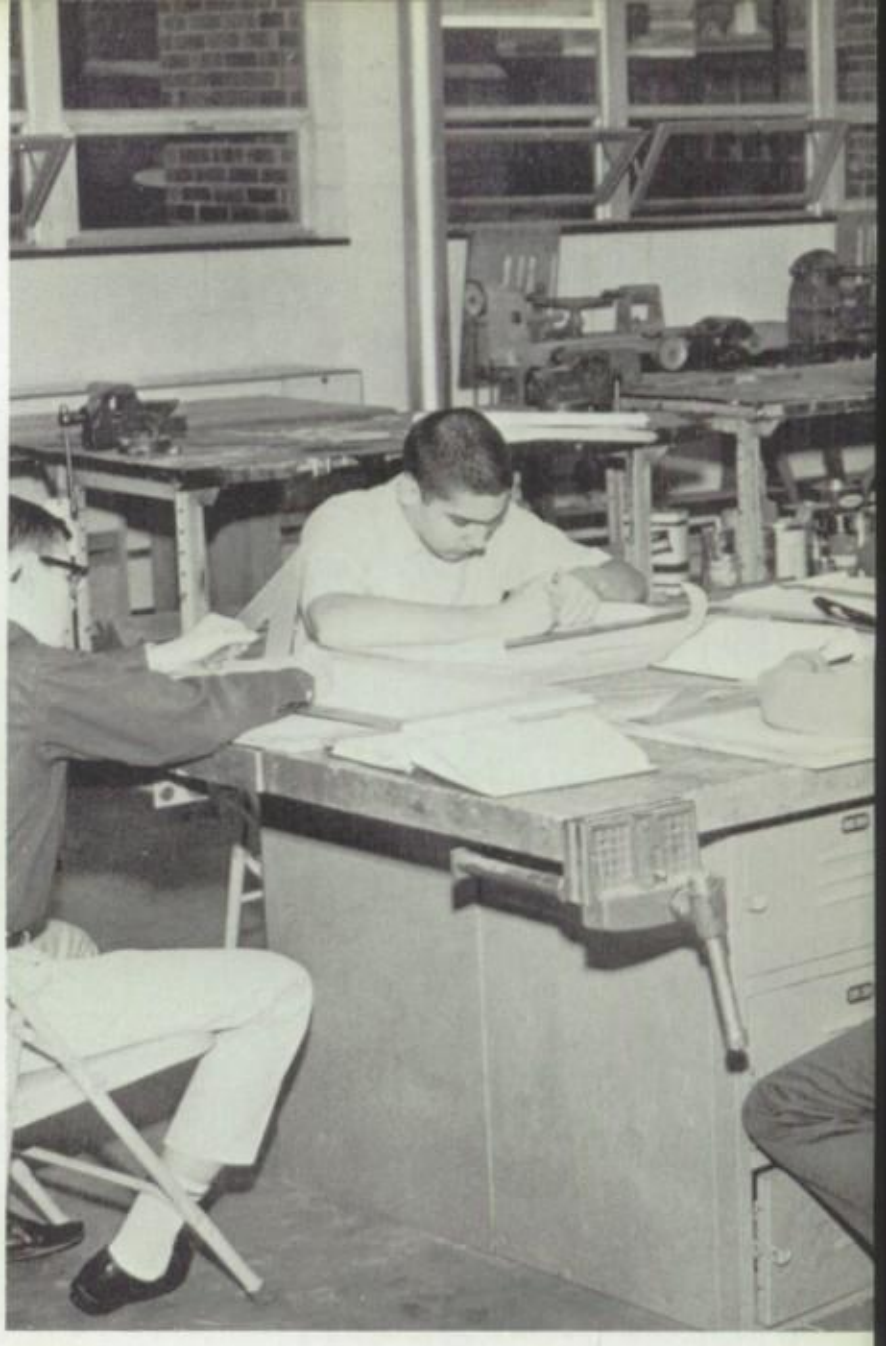
...prep for college

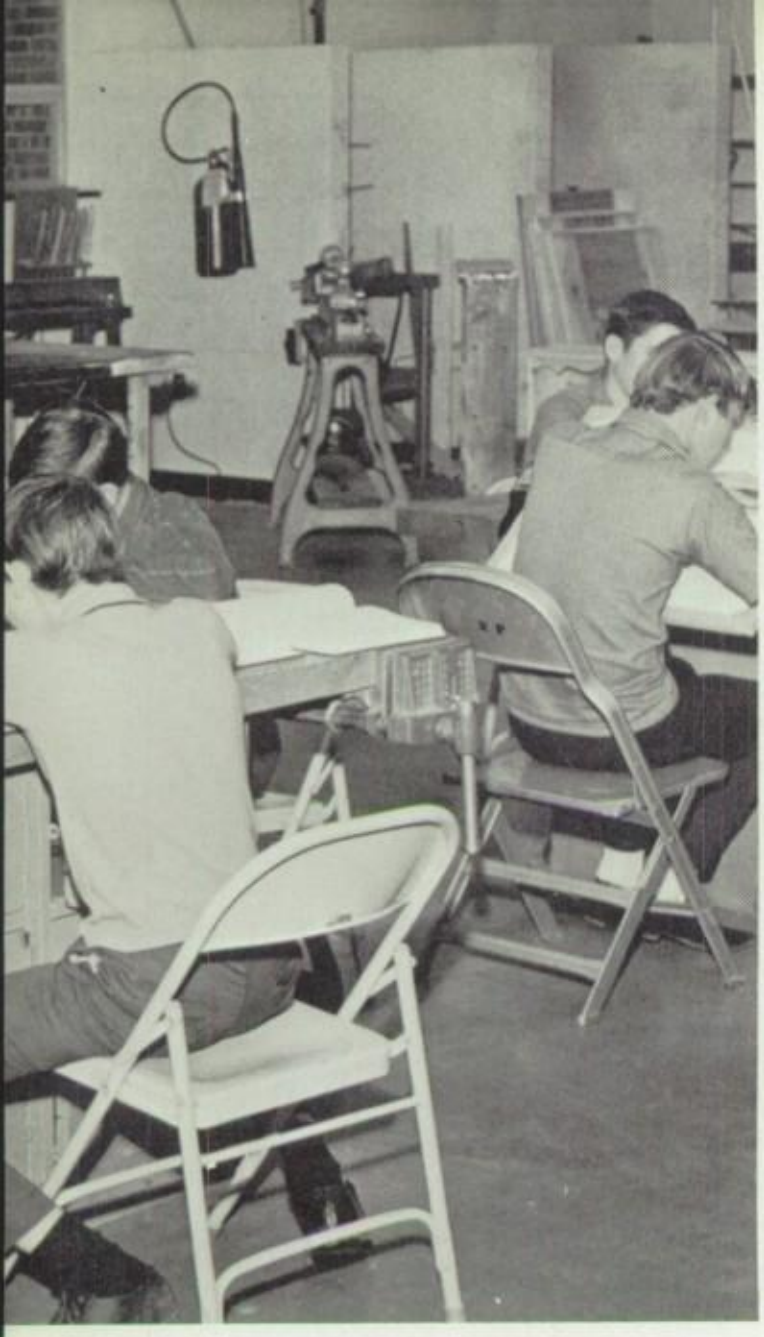
Every year guidance counselors across the nation cope with the problem of placing seniors in the appropriate colleges. Mr. Rumble and Mr. Davis are a comforting source of guidance and advice concerning plans for the future. Each college-bound senior must prepare for his immediate future by studying hard for exams, working diligently on special projects and applying himself wholeheartedly to every task assigned. High school is a period of life during which adolescents can mature into young adults ready to face college.





...future jobs

High school prepares each student for his future life. It teaches him many skills that will be put to effective use in the many years ahead. The students already use many of these skills, such as typing themes, baking cakes, or making gifts in shop.



...being with people

Everywhere a person turns he is surrounded by people, especially in the crowded halls at New Palestine High School.

An important competence the students at New Palestine High School have acquired is the ability to associate with people. They have gained this skill by talking with friends, by discussing problems with teachers and by attending and participating in activities such as Girls Athletic Association, Sunshine Society, Future Farmers of America, Art and Camera Club, Lettermen's Club, football, baseball and the all-time favorite--basketball. These many activities help the student learn how to get along with others.

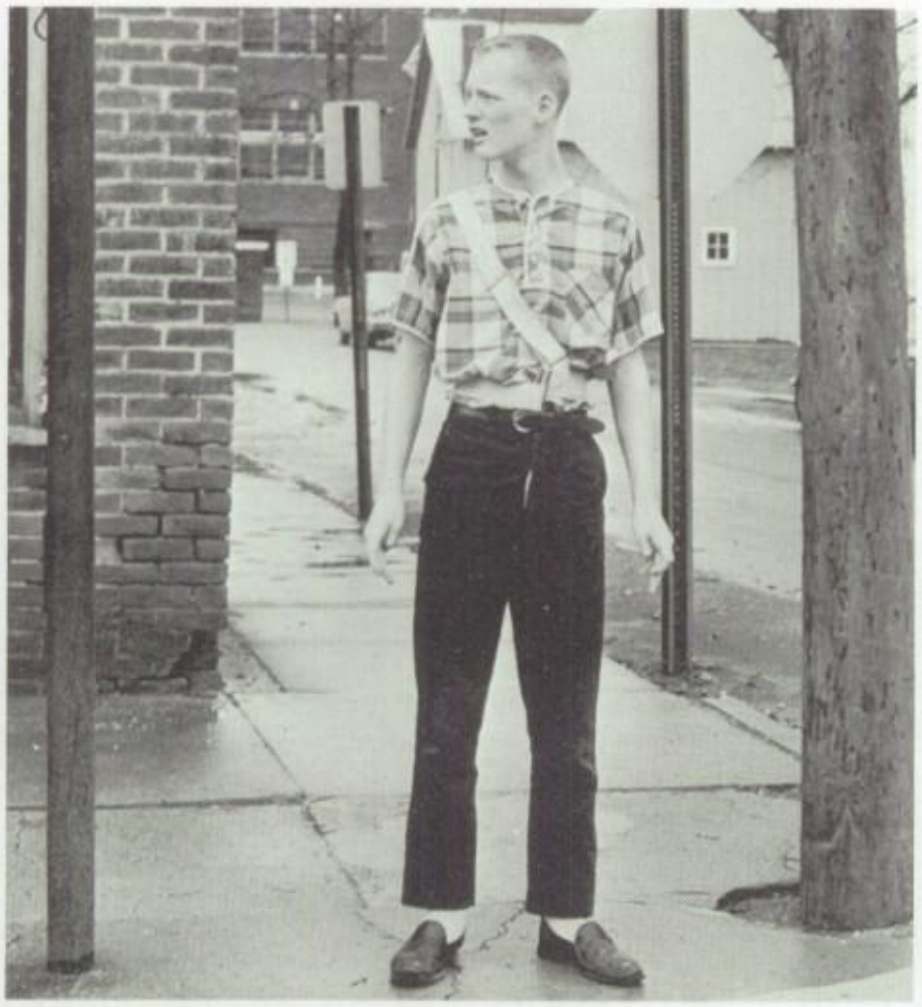
...building character

Character must be built from the ground up. The ground-breaking must be in that of high scholastic standards; the foundation is that of communication with others. The walls are of leadership. The roof is of song and of concern for the welfare of others. NP character is made of such sturdy materials and it will stand erect.

Sports, Sunshine Society, Honor Society, Madrigal, Band, and Speech are only a few of the building blocks offered to NP students for building character.



NEW PALESTINE H.S.

...developing leadership

These are the leaders of our school; they make our school what it is and uphold what it stands for.

The patrol boy who stands on the corner every morning and afternoon helps make going to and from school safe for everyone.

The Student Council helps to make a better school by enabling students and teachers to work together through democratic representation for common goals.

The class president has the responsibility of leading his class in making the right decisions and doing what is right.

Because of the leadership and guidance of these people, we have a school of which we can all be proud.

...meeting competition

Learning to meet competition challenges and matures one. A person competes not only with others but also with himself.

Meeting the competition of later life takes early practice, and practice sessions are often hidden and obscure.

Trying to prove a point is a form of competition which can be experienced by speaking...."We're the best!" scream fervent fans... "Resolved: " that the secession of the southern states from the union was unconstitutional because..." debate U.S. history students.

Our athletes have to compete to prove "We are the best!"

Thus it can be said that N.P.H.S. prepares its students for meeting competition and appreciating the enrichment it brings.

classes: english

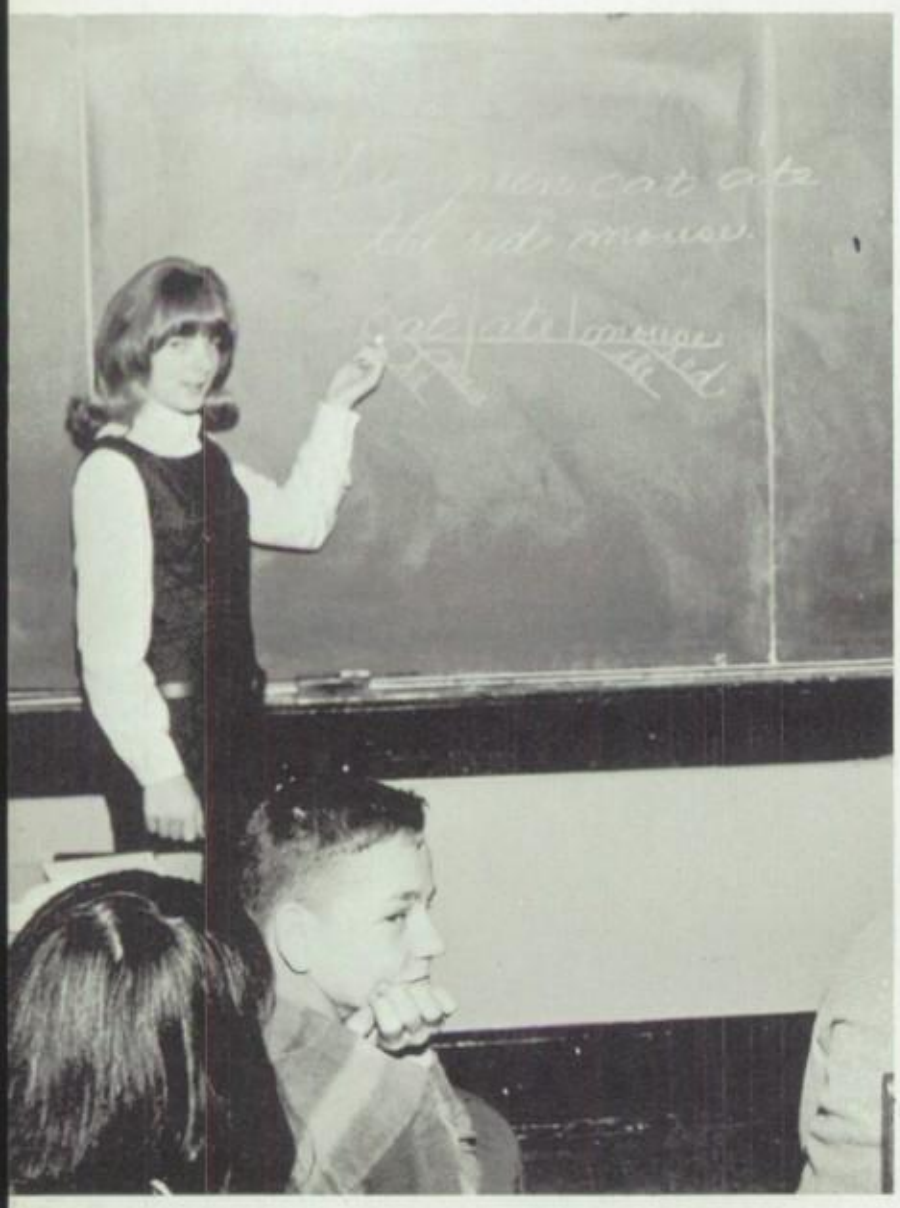
Literature is an important part of the English curriculum, enriching students' lives with the noblest thoughts of men artistically expressed.

Senior English is the final review of grammar studies and extensive writing in preparation for more advanced studies of English to be found in further education.

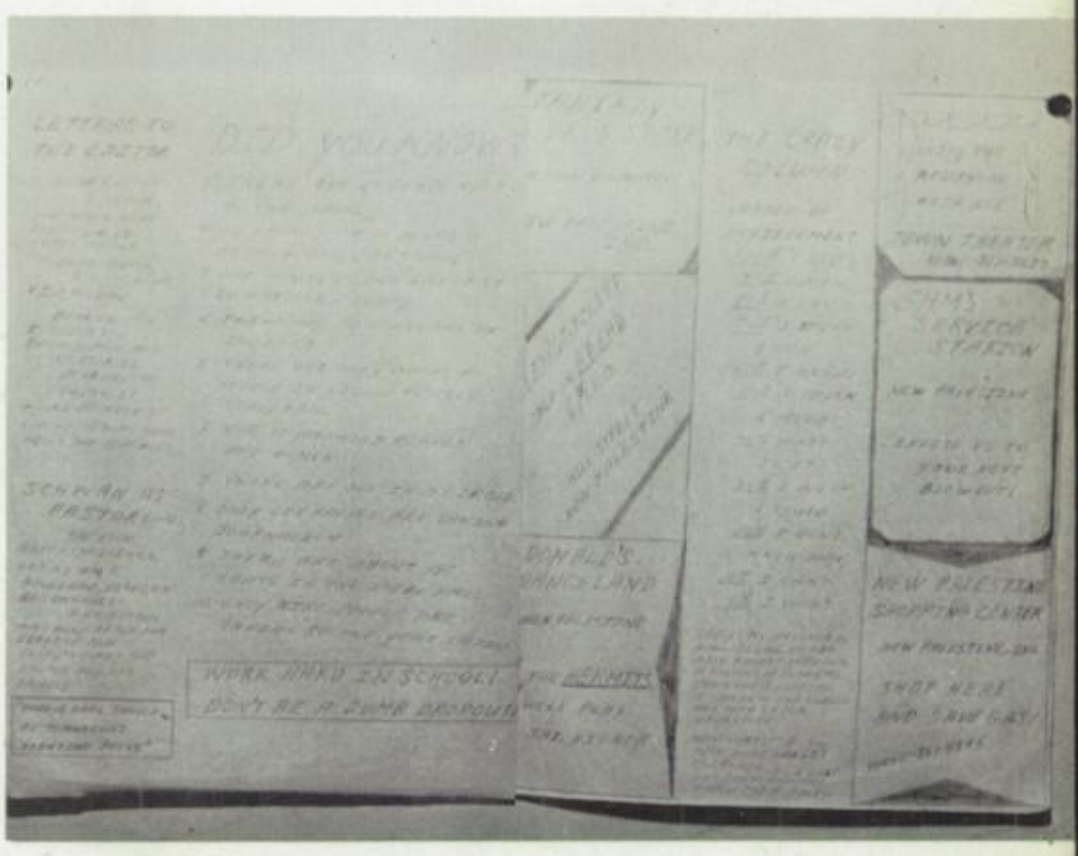
dept....

Communication is vital in all phases of life; therefore English (rapidly becoming the universal language), too, is vital. All phases of English study provide a background for each course studied in school. English study enables students to read and to understand what they read. It teaches students the uses, the meanings, and the powerful effectiveness of words when they are combined in a perfectly constructed sentence.

Joyce illustrates that in oral reading one must convey the ideas of the author so that the listener can not only understand the thought but also enjoy listening.



Jr. High English is a basic and important preparation for the broader, more varied courses offered in high school.



Journalism is one of the most interesting phases of English study, especially to those who are interested in writing and newspaper work.

science...a key to the future

Today through the study of science, we are opening the doors of the unknown for future generations. In chemistry we discover new and better materials for future use. Physics teaches us how we can utilize the forces of energy. Biology and health have given us immunity to many diseases and are continuing to battle diseases that still plague man.

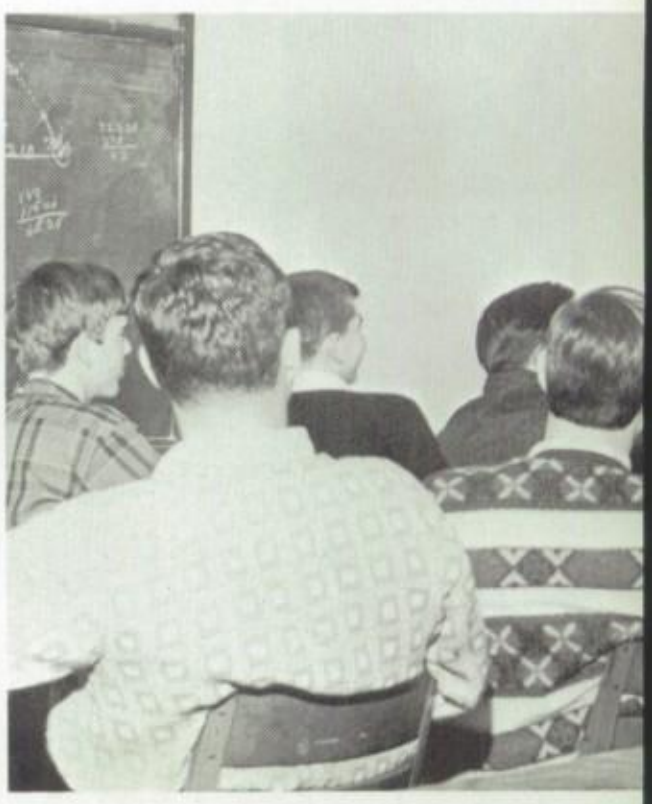
Because of our study of these sciences, tomorrow's world will be a better place in which to live.

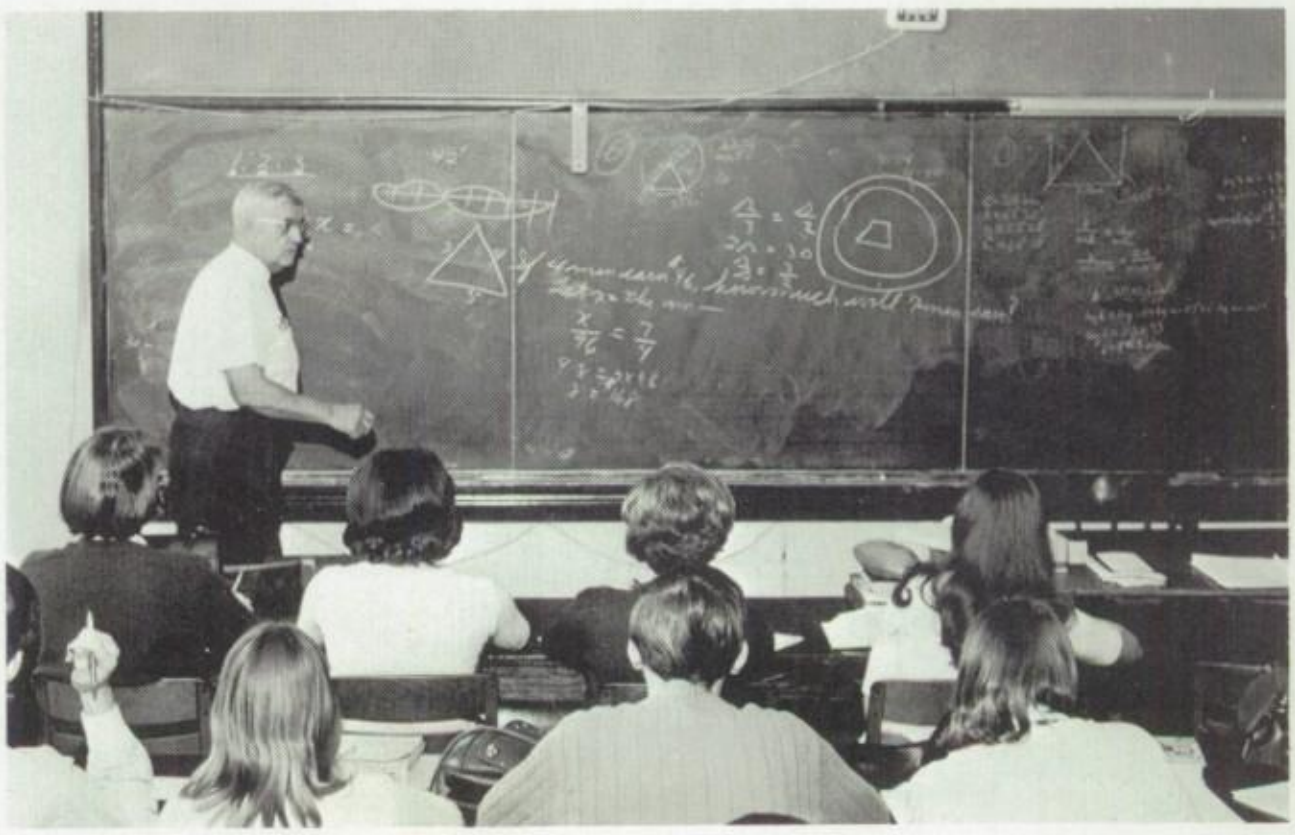
Curiosity is a basic requisite of discovery.

Determining the linear expansion of metals in physics class.

math - a step by step

The first step in math is taken in the primary grades. As grade-schoolers we walk hand-in-hand with addition and subtraction. We rely upon the firm, sure support of these two that later will lead us to multiplication and division. As we enter junior high, our steps become more numerous and more complex. We tread through junior high mathematics, algebra, and geometry. A false finality appears as we march through senior math; for we must yet step still higher upon the walkway of higher education.





Modern Geometry is a subject involving arithmetic and algebra through the study of elementary details of plane and solid geometric figures, such as various polygons, prisms, pyramids, spheres, etc.

Arithmetic is the science o numbers and the art of workin with them by using fundamental process

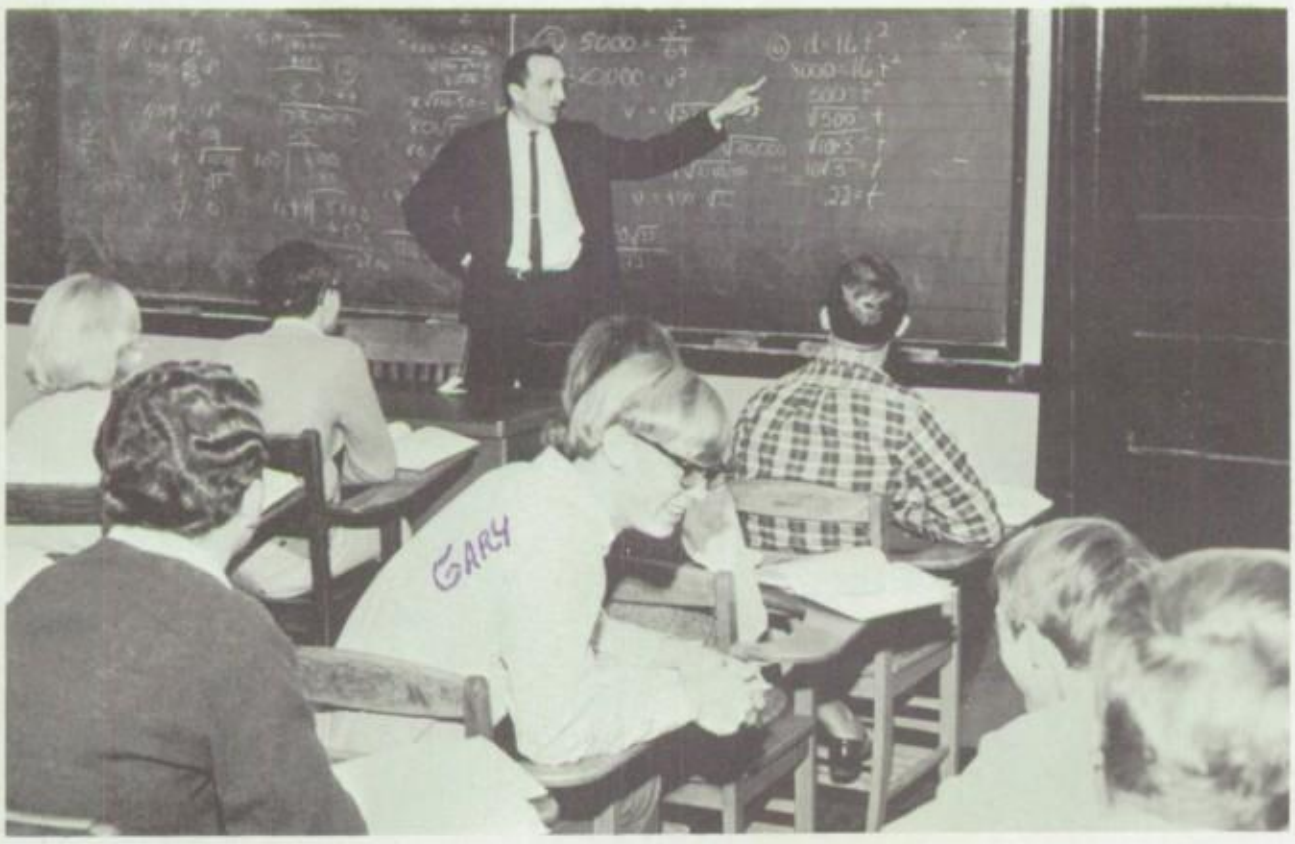
Senior Mathematics is a general review of arithmetic, modern geometry, and analytics plus advanced work in preparation of statistics and calculus.



Algebra is a study of equations, graphs, and relations between the parts of plane and solid geometric figures, and various types of curve lines which show how to locate certain points on various surfaces - both plane and solid.

of arithmetic, business relationships, and geometric constructions and their meanings.

social studies...under-

Juniors may have to exert themselves for a good history grade, but the reward is ten times greater than the effort.

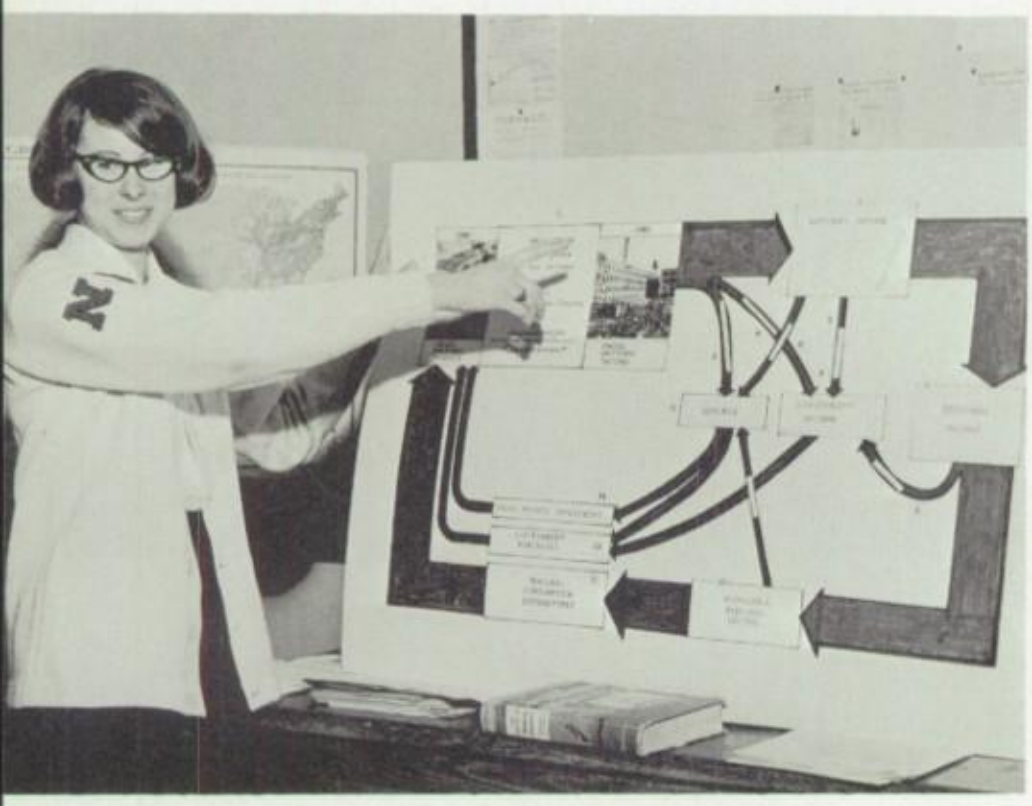
These three look overjoyed to find New Palestine on the map.. (come now - it isn't that tiny)

By studying the history of the world, we learn of the now vanished civilizations that helped make our world what it is today.

standing our world

Through the study of world geography, we learn more about the world in which we live.

Through the study of economics, we learn how our nation functions.



If NPHS students were asked to rank according to difficulty the subjects taught at NPHS, most pupils would place social studies near the top. Certainly, the New Palestine students realize that through their understanding of social studies, they are forming their own opinions of the society in which we live. All of the social studies teachers deserve much credit for the way in which they inspire their students to take greater interest in the government of the United States and the government of Indiana.

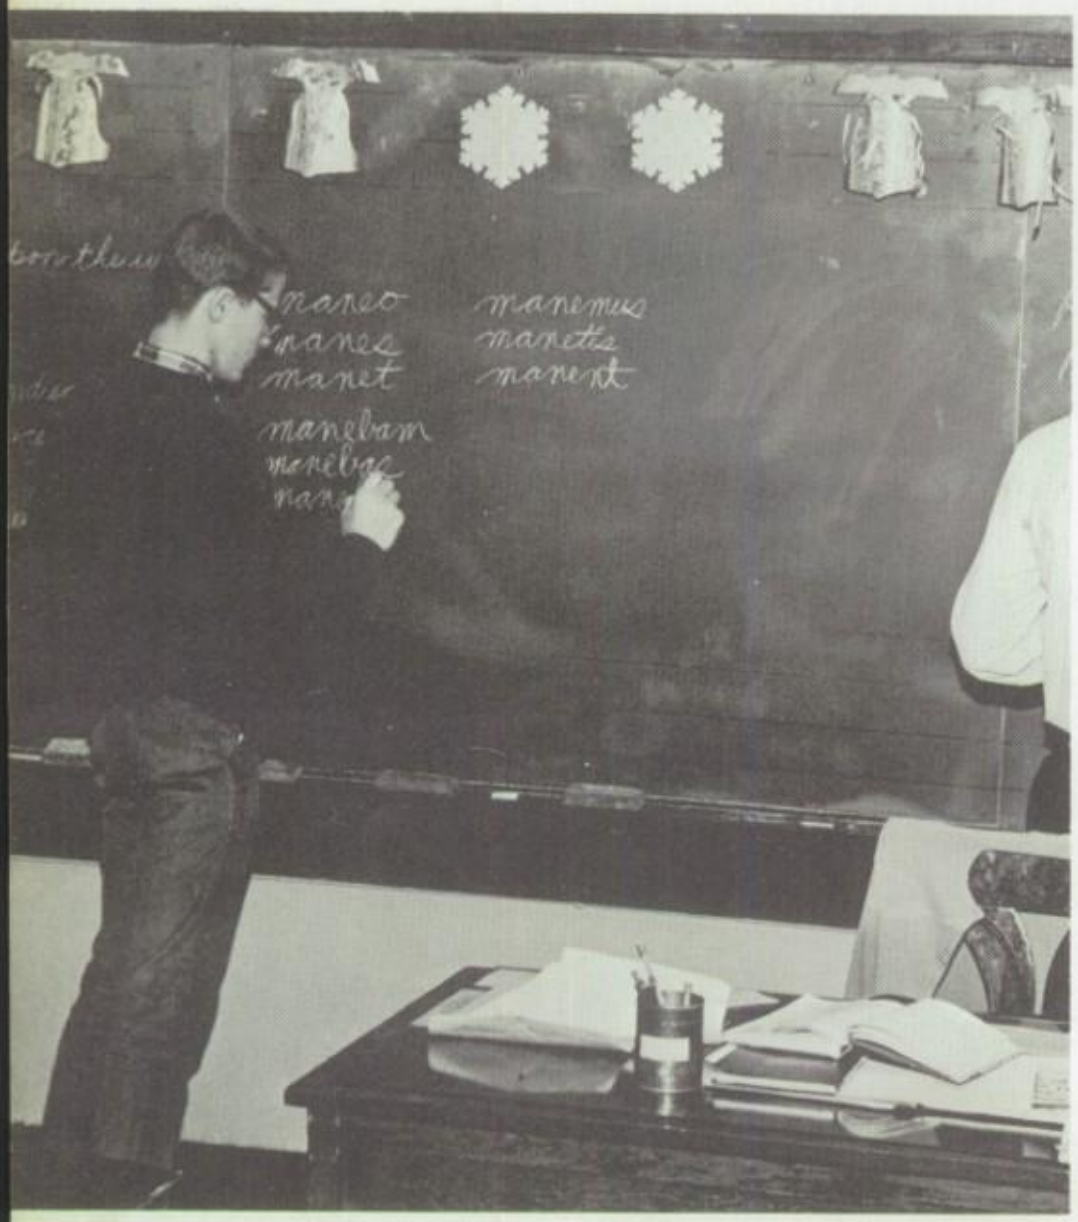
The senior year is enriched through the study of government.

languages...

Languages help broaden our knowledge of other people and other countries.

The study of a foreign language in high school helps one to think clearly and often enables one to understand his own English language much better.

Latin, which is widley used in scientific terminology, is truly not a dead language. Spanish acquaints us with our neighbors to the south with whom we are closely associated.



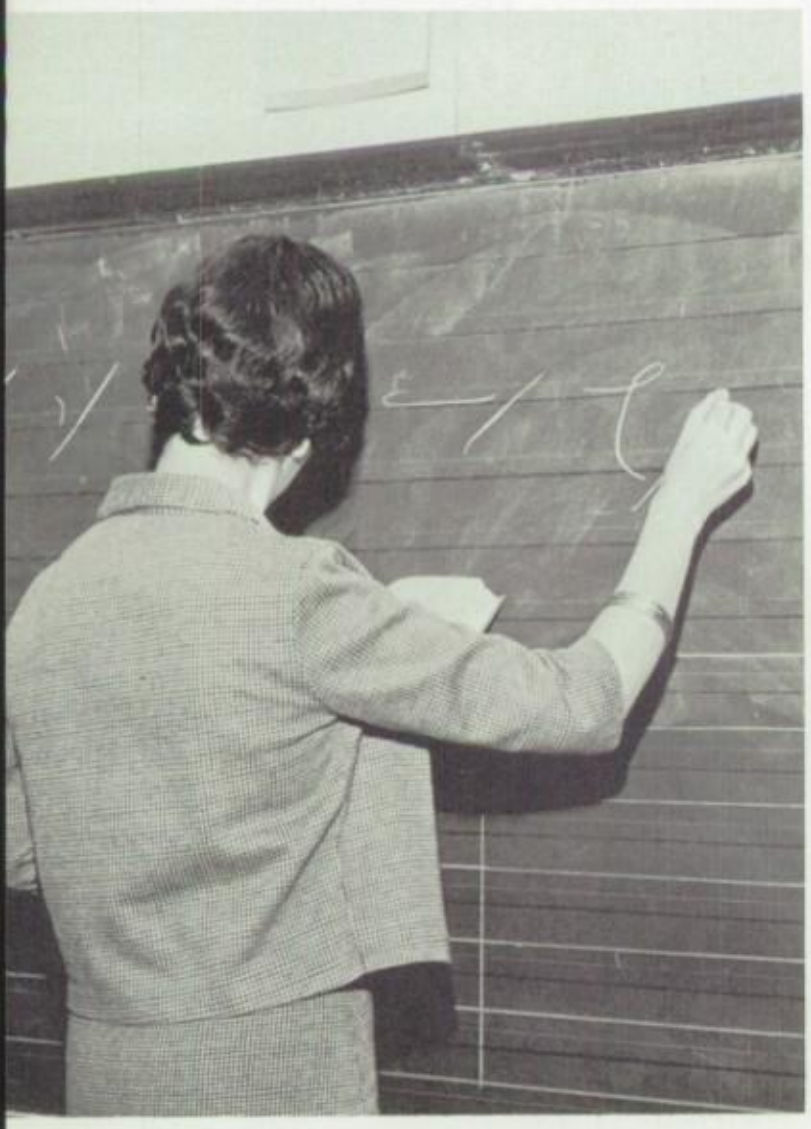
Learning the declensions of nouns and the conjugations of verbs is very important in Latin.

Kris points out a special area of interest in a Spanish town.

business...

If one is planning a career as a secretary or as a business man, taking business courses is a must, and for those planning other careers, a business course can be very beneficial. Knowing how to type will be helpful in college. Bookkeeping developes an understanding of the importance of systematic records, creates a marketable skill, and enables the student to manage his own affairs more intelligently.

Accuracy and speed are skills typing students are constantly working to improve.



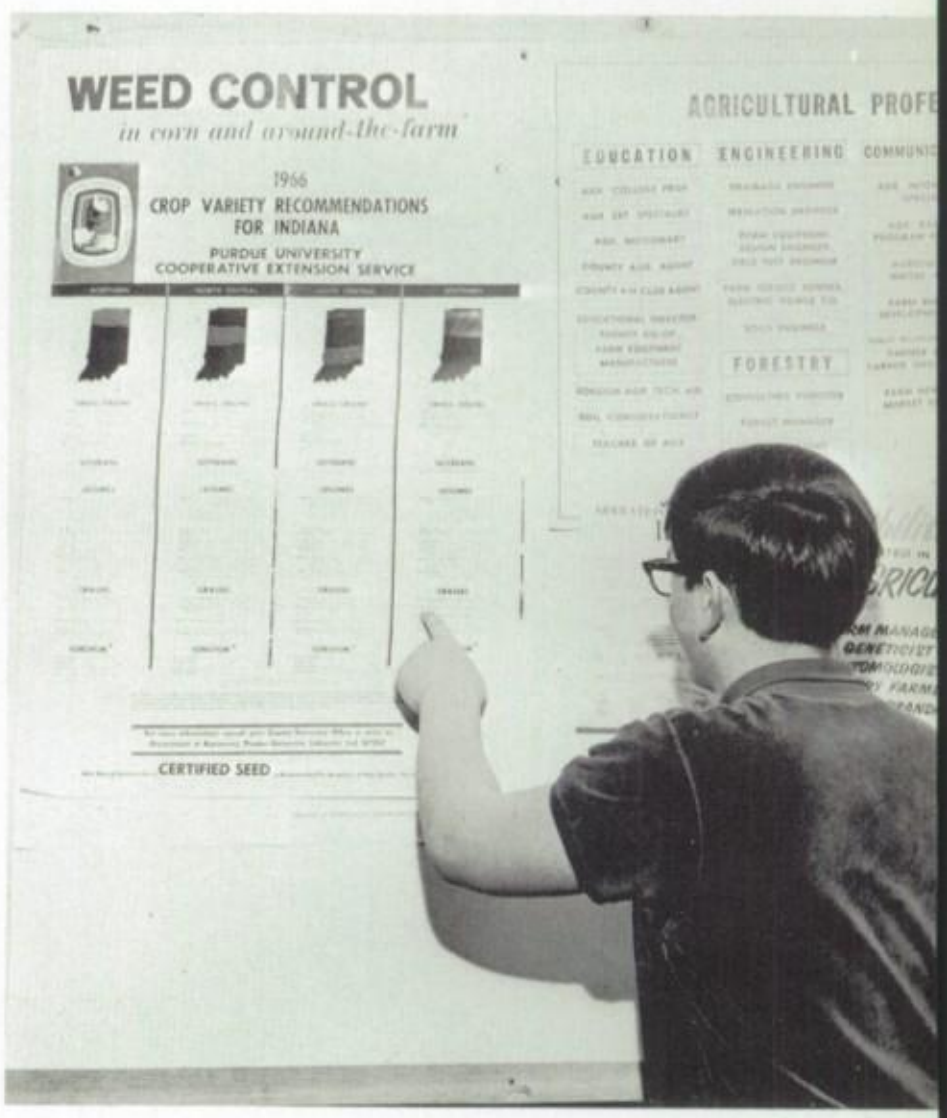
Knowing shorthand is very helpful to a girl planning a secretarial career.

Alert Mr. Rumble is keeping a close watch over this large bookkeeping class.

agriculture:

Agriculture, a vocational course designed for boys interested in farming, gives them a better understanding of livestock and crop production, enables them to keep abreast of new ideas in agriculture, and acquaints them with sources of aid in solving their problems.

The boys are able to learn the "ups and downs" of farming and its scientific aspects.



David studies the various methods of weed control.

Steve believes it is necessary to know the anatomy of a cow before milking.

Vera Copple and Becky Lawrence make sure each ingredient is measured carefully.

Sally Hill practices the art of setting a table properly.

home ec:

Home economics classes prepare girls for careers both outside the home and in the home. Because being a homemaker is a full time job, girls need instruction and practice in learning homemaking skills.

Home ec enables the girls to keep up on all the new advances in the field of homemaking and gives them practice in using the skills they learn.

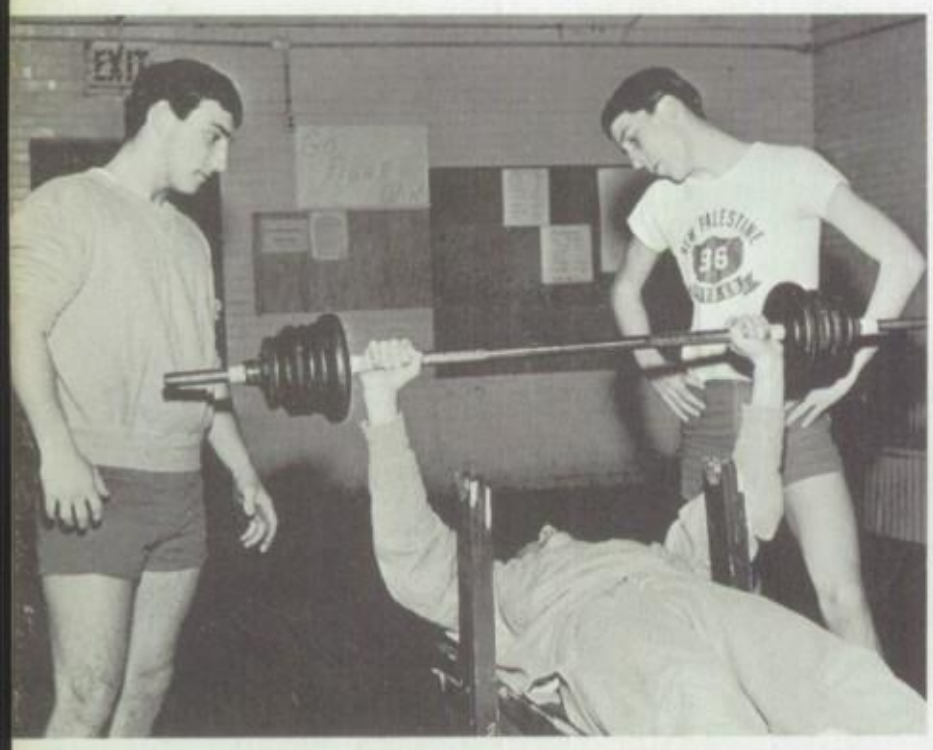
Do it right boys, or you'll have to do it over, and over, and...

phys. ed:

Physical education is an important part of our rehearsal for life.

A mind cannot function properly if the body in which it is housed isn't healthy and fit.

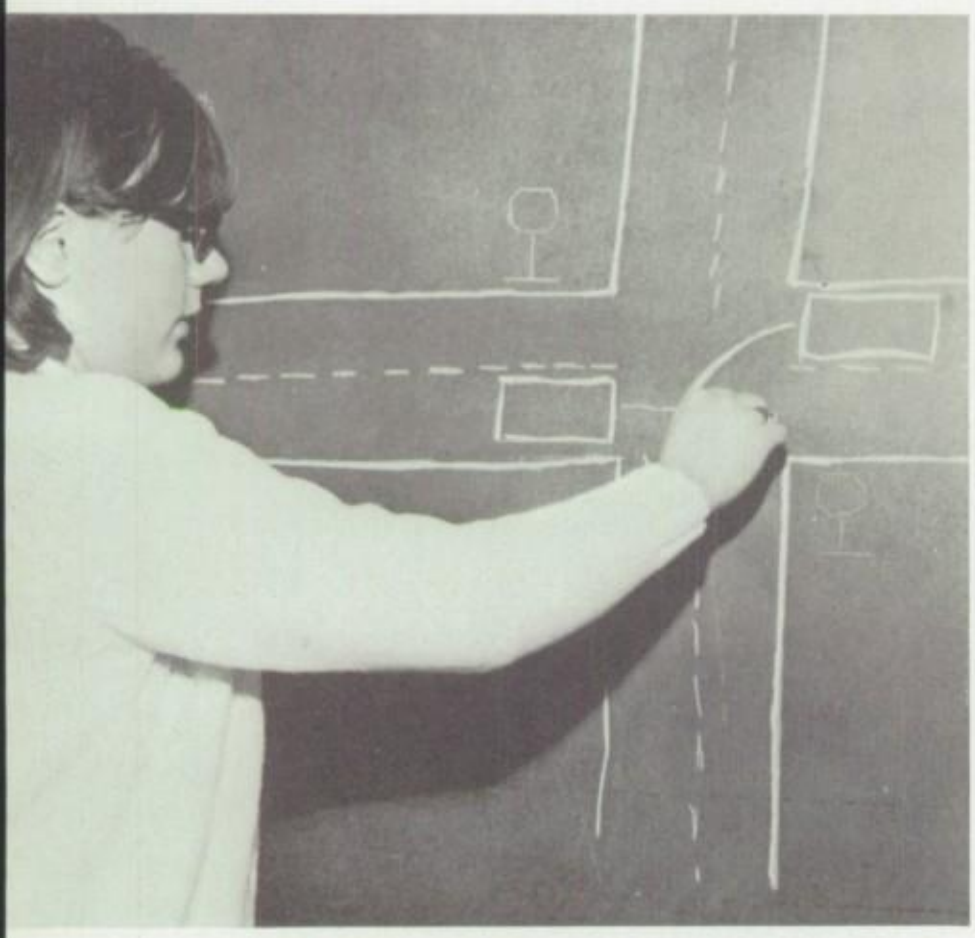
Phys. ed. teachers Mrs. Hoffman and Mr. McNamara, with their assistants see to it that NPHS students keep fit. They plan activities to maintain student interest in health and fitness.



Now tell us - Is it really that heavy?

I can't help it! The net keeps getting in the way.

drivers' ed.:



Pam demonstrates a traffic situation.

One of the most important skills a person can learn in today's modern, automated world is the operation of a car.

It's not enough just to know how to drive. A person must know something about the car and how it functions.

Instructor Ted Thompson strives to turn out the best drivers possible. Mr. Thompson makes use of the valuable material in the textbook and thoroughly answers any questions that his students may ask him before that big day when they get behind the wheel for their first drive.

In the one-semester course, Mr. Thompson makes first-class drivers of his pupils, who will make tomorrow's roads safer.

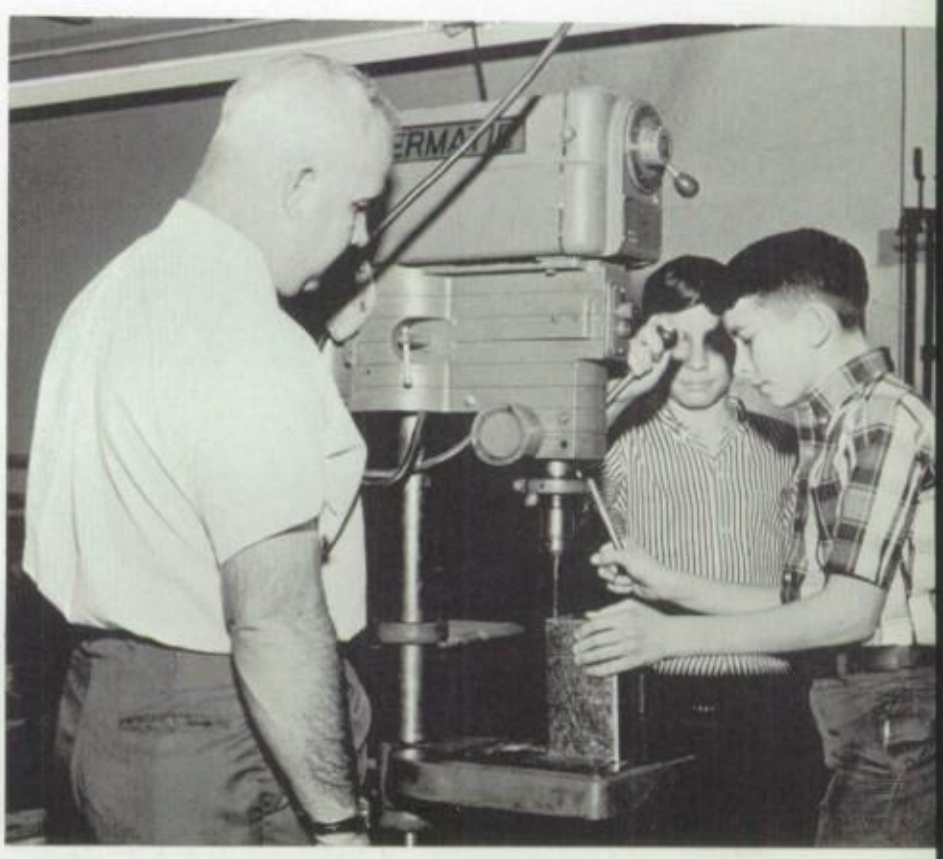
If you think it's hard now, wait 'til we get on the road.

creative arts:

What is a person who has no imagination? He is a dull person indeed. Mrs. Rachel Lantz and Mrs. Virginia Collins try to prevent NPHS students from becoming unimaginative by giving high school and junior high students assistance in the creative arts. Art students are constantly busy on projects ranging from wall-sized murals to intricate ceramic work.

industrial arts:

NPHS shop classes harbor the carpenters. architects and mechanics of tomorrow. Under the guidance of Walt Molinder, students manufacture and design many examples of fine craftsmanship. Correct operational methods are studied extensively.



people

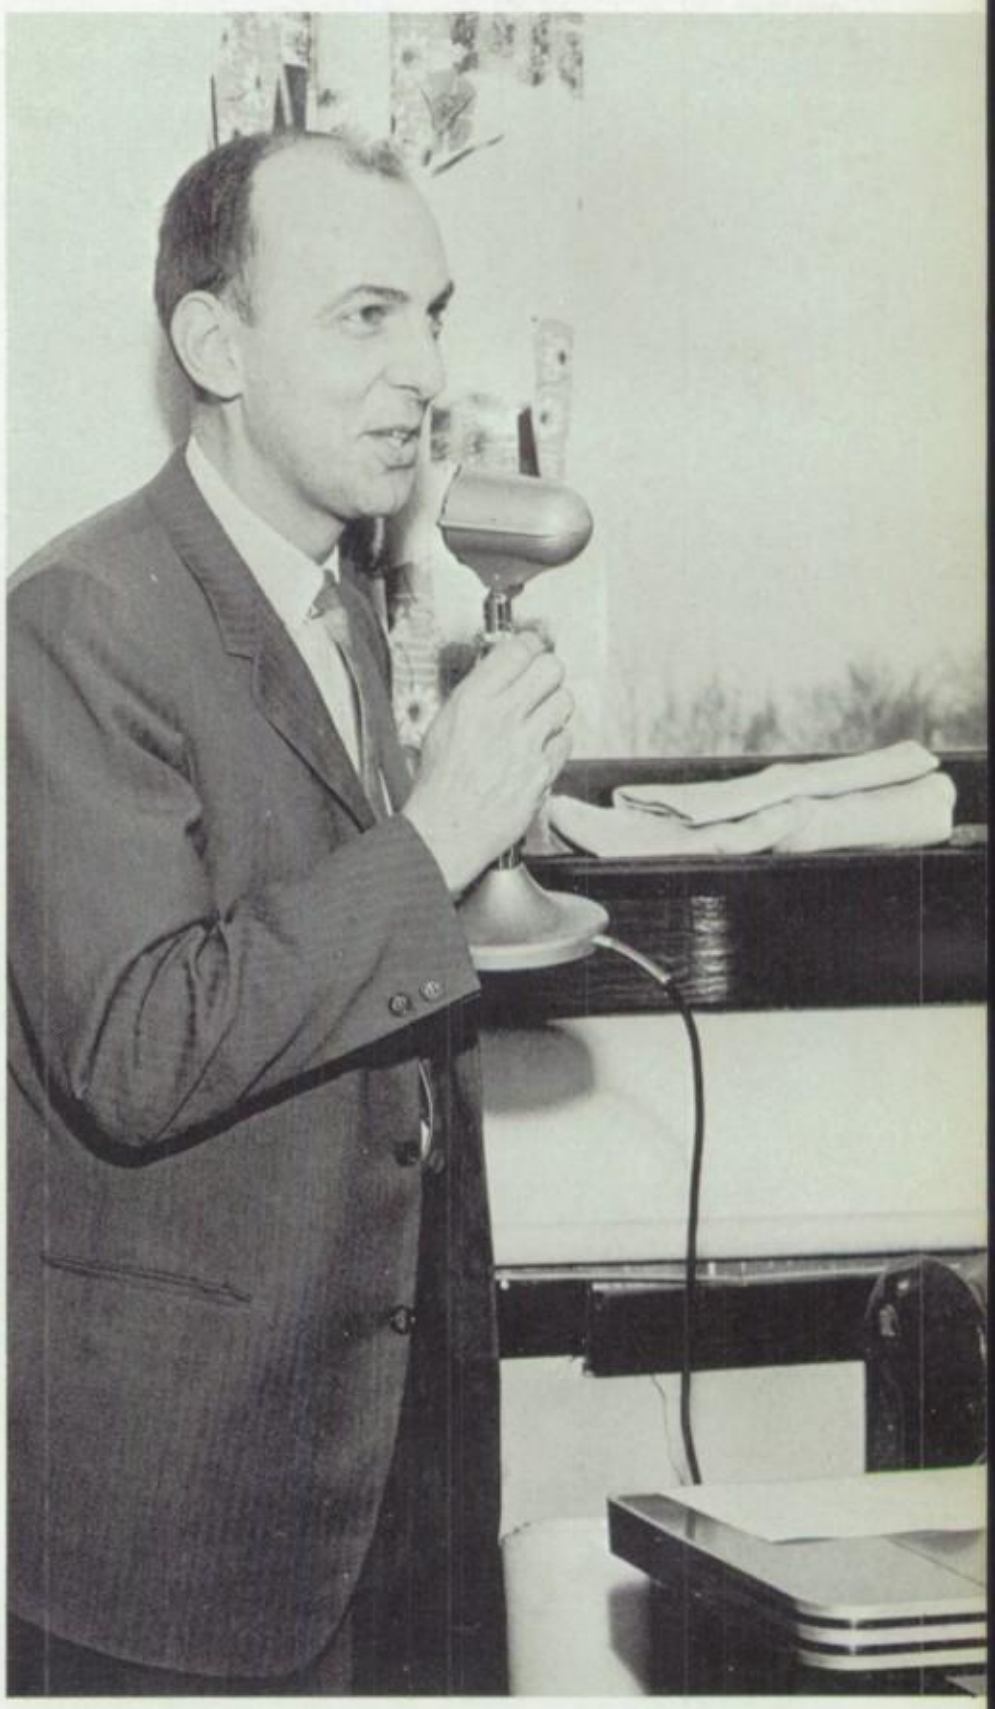
M.K.Holzhausen, Superintendent.

Mrs. Lois Arthur, Secretary.

School Board; Sam Wilson, Joseph Dodd, Wilbur Lantz, John P. Hill, William Wickliff.

Mrs. Frances Basey, Secretary

Mrs. Basey is a star performer in our school operations. Sitting behind her desk, she seldom has a spare minute in the school day. Her cheerful smile, warm personality, and comprehensive ability have been a blessing to visitors, faculty, and students at N.P.



Principal, Keith R. Davis

Mr. Davis always willingly finds time to be helpful to each individual student and organization. Each day he goes through many interviews, repetitive questions, and tears from students, and always he remains calm, cheerful, and understanding. He certainly deserves a standing ovation.

Carl H. Wilson, Principal, N.P. Elementary.

Cafeteria cashier: Mrs. Joan Alexander

It is true that much discipline must be given to elementary students, but a generous amount of unstanding must accompany the rules in order to make certain that the children become well adjusted to school life. The Brandywine and New Palestine elementary schools are fortunate that they have principals who are able to be firm with the pupils while remaining kind. Patience and compassion are trademarks of Mr. Mitchell from Brandywine and Mr. Wilson from New Palestine.

Any person who can keep smiling after battling mobs of students waiting in line to purchase lunch tickets must be heaven-sent. Although Mrs. Alexander, cafeteria cashier, is confronted every day by students who are in a rush to buy a lunch ticket, she manages to make the transaction swiftly and accurately.

Clarence Mitchell, Principal, Brandywine Elementary.

teachers:

Teachers are the school's blood. They stream through every phase of school; through veins of classes, organizations, and extra-curricular activities. Teachers are more than instructors of text book knowledge. They also teach students self-discipline, the desire to learn, and appreciation of what they have learned. Teachers provide the incentive for student determination to strive for a goal. They serve as guides, counselors, reprimanders, superiors, and friends. It is truly found that behind each student's accomplishments there lies a good flow of teachers.

grade three

When asked the question, "How does it feel to be a third grader?", some of the frank innocent answers were "Fine," "Nice," "Its fun". "We color birds in science. We learn where they go in wintertime."

Answers to "What do you like best about the third grade?" varied. "Well, I like arithmetic, and I like my teacher." "I like English. We've been talking about how to write letters." "I like arithmetic; you learn numbers."

One little tyke's answer summarized, "I like being a third grader because you learn more about everything."

grade two

Have you ever sat and watched a small second-grade child? Have you ever noticed that something is always running through his mind, even though he may be sitting perfectly still? It may be a mischievous trick he is planning to spring on you, or a question you would never expect such a small child to ask, such as "What's on the moon?" or "What is atomic energy?"

If you have never had the experience of listening to a second grader, listen, and you'll find the most inquiring minds beneath those curly locks.

avalon staff

Avalon Sponsors Mr. Carroll Rumble and Miss Martha Willis.

The Avalon is your book. It means many things to many people; for the students of CSCSHS it represents many fond memories of the best years of their lives.

To the editors it is the reward of many long hours of planning. To the business staff it is the "value received" for the hours of selling. To the photography staff it is that perfect picture. To the copy staff it is that best wording. To the typing staff it is that accurate copy.

All worked tirelessly to make possible this book. The class of 1967 proudly presents to you their book and yours--the 1967 AVALON.

"No honor conferred by this school excels that embodied in this society. It represents the fundamental objectives for which schools are instituted and gives recognition to those who have made greatest progress toward these desired ends.... The four cardinal principles upon which our organization is founded are Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service...."

"Scholarship is the shining goal toward which every worthy New Palestine High School student has been striving."

"The power to lead is a wonderful gift if it is wisely used...for your school, your country, and your God."

"Character is the result of strength which wisely used guides the principles and motives that control one's life."

"Service to others gives us the highest form of happiness in this world. 'He who would be the greatest among you must be the servant of all.'"

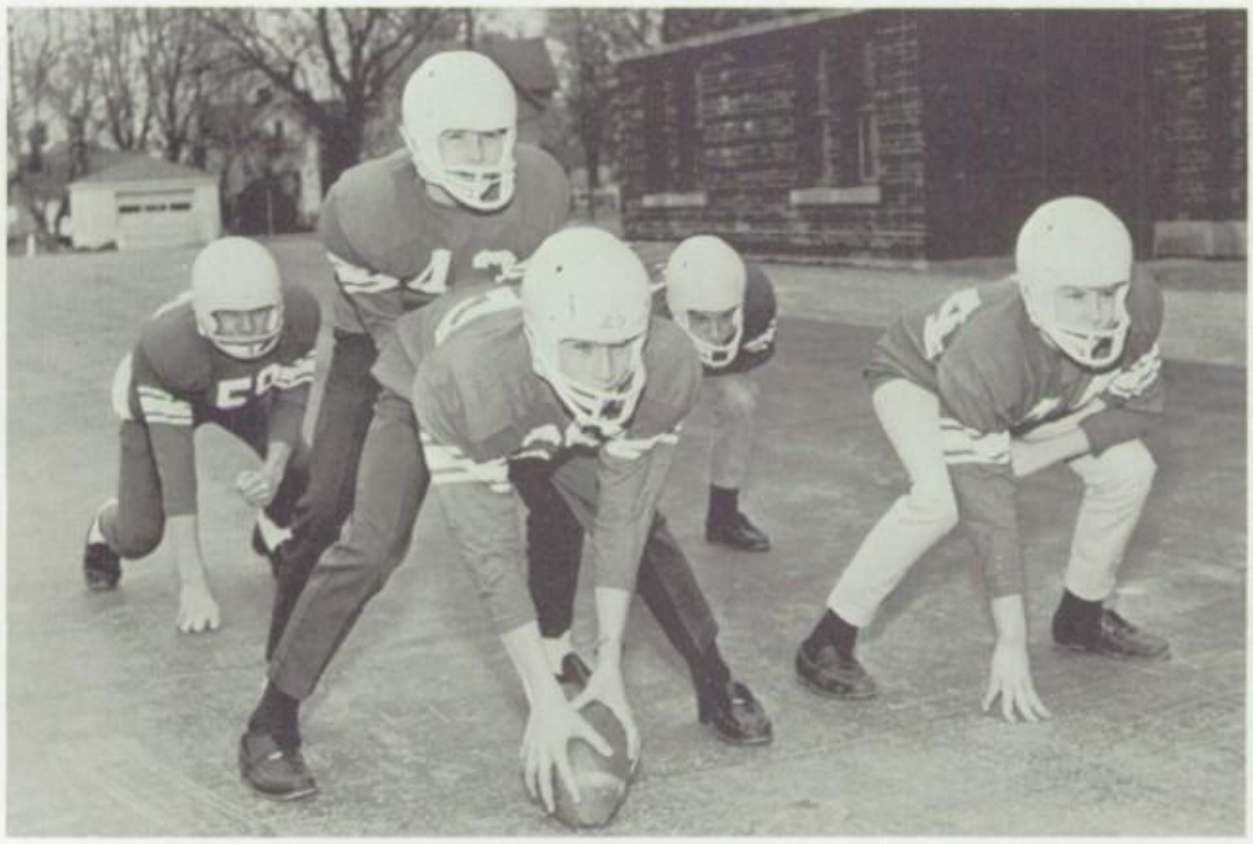
their own



The autumn air around NP was filled with footballs for the first time in the history of N.P.H.S. Hancock Central was the first to taste defeat at the hands of the first year football players. On their way to a 2-4-2 record, the young Dragons recorded victories over Hancock Central and Hagerstown; ties were with Sheridan and Creston. Losses were at the hands of Carmel, Whiteland, Knightstown, and undefeated Deaf School. Coaches Dick Beeson and Tom McNamara had 36 prospective football players for their first season. In their first season, these young football participants showed a willingness to learn, a desire to play, and the team spirit and co-operation it takes to become a successful team.

The basketball season of 1966-67 saw nearly all of the records in basketball shattered. The New Palestine Dragons scored a record of 19 wins against 3 losses. New Palestine will long remember the team of 66-67 and their record-breaking year.

Music is the universal language of the world, and the world needs more people who would rather harmonize than sound their own horns--people who would rather step in time together than progress in silent solitude.

Our music program provides the opportunity to increase the harmonizers, to stimulate an appreciation of musical culture, to brighten and soothe, and to provide the musician with the satisfaction of knowing that he has perhaps moved a soul.

How different NPHS school life would be without our music department!

Study Hall

in conclusion

Before closing this book, we, the 1967 Avalon editors, would like to recognize those people without whose help we would not have been able to produce this yearbook.

The person who has helped us convert our despairs to determination, our mountains to molehills, and our hopes to happenings, is Miss Martha Willis. Without her patience and encouragement this book would not have been a reality.

Mr. Carroll Rumble has provided valuable assistance in the checking of plans and finances.

We were fortunate to have the services of Mr. Frank Woschitz, yearbook advisor from Paragon Press. It was he who molded our abstract ideas into concrete ones. His sincere interest in our progress has been a great stimulus to our endeavors.

Also to be acknowledged is our principal, Mr. Keith R. Davis, who provided us much assistance by his cooperation and consideration.

Could you imagine a yearbook without pictures? The two gentlemen who provided us scenes from typical and not-so-typical school days were Mr. Dale Briles and Mr. Phil Hollenbaugh, of Dajo Studio.

We would also like to thank the faculty for their patience and cooperation, especially on the days when pictures were taken.

Much work goes into producing a yearbook -- thinking, making layouts, setting up pictures, proportioning pictures, measuring, revising layouts, writing copy, checking, re-checking, typing, label licking, and again more checking. But we'd like to do it all again. We have gained much experience and maturity.

The value of a yearbook should not be underestimated. We hope that the '67 Avalon will give permanence to a year in which New Palestine has excelled in both academics and athletics. It has been a very good year.

Sincerely,

The Editors of the 1967 Avalon

—Bec—

So a real sweet and cute girl who I have really enjoyed the company of in the last two years. I hope we have more fun next year because it will be your last year here at N.P.S. I do not know right of hand when we are going to go to Brown County this year but I'll let you know. ok.

Do you realize that this year you have almost had a fight with everyone at school. But you always make up hey? is that.

Good luck with Greg even if you do not need it So be good and be careful. But have fun always ok. I hope we always stay the best of friends ok.

Love

Deb

Bec,
There's not much I can say. We have been best of friends ever since we were little. I imagine
it will take a lot to split our friendship up, which will never happen if I am concerned. There's only one thing wrong you never come over my house. Surely you can do without Greg one night. Ha Ha!
You guys make a real cute
